

NECROLEMUR

“Words twist like sinew, jolting your heart with energy from a lush jungle leagues away.”

NECROLEMUR, Chattanooga Tennessee’s fabled Psych-rap collective. Founded by MC’s Kid Cuebas and Melancholy Dupree out of a college dorm, the duo started working together after realizing their collaboraitve potential.

Sonically, the group features trip-hop, trip-trap, and conscious hip-hop, accenuating themes of: Depression, anxiety, relationships, and social consciousness. The contrastive nature of the artists has been the driving factor in their success thus far.

Melancholy Dupree is from Memphis Tennessee and flexes with a primality thousands of years in the make. The edge of his voice cuts through the listeners ear and offers a relatable angst in hurt displayed through powerful and enticing narratives.

Kid Cuebas is from Nashville Tennessee and offers listeners “Depressive optimism” weaving bars about hopes and dreams grounded by the ideas of human limitation.

The group has performed shows all throughout the southeast, namely Atlanta Apparel Company’s debut, Road to Nightfall’s battle of the bands, Grownnooga music festival, and most recently Chattanooga’s first hip-hop festival. They have received press for their various performances from the The Pulse, Bryan Stones radio podcast, and Nooga.com.

After getting their initial shows under their belt and establishing a core fanbase and a local name, NECROLEMUR looks to take their talents to other regions and work towards bridging culture through their narratives and unique sound.
