Background: In August of 2015, Detroit-based jazz musician, Gino Fanelli, relocated to Lookout Mountain, Georgia in pursuit of something new. Having played every genre from western swing to jazz, Fanelli eventually forged his signature style with 1930's New Orleans party jazz, which he has spent the last 15 years honing. Fanelli's combination of guitar virtuosity, good-time music and charismatic stage banter--coupled with his charming vintage mien--has earned him a reputation as the go-to guy for club bookings, events, weddings and more.

Fanelli is currently available for bookings and will be hitting the road this spring for solo performances in places such as Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina and Michigan. He also leads a three-piece group, The Jalopy Brothers, who are also available for hire.
